

A diagram of a biconvex lens. A horizontal line passes through the center of the lens, representing the optical axis. The center of the lens is labeled 'O'. On either side of the lens, along the optical axis, there are points labeled 'F', representing the focal points. The lens is shaded with diagonal lines.